BECOME A SOCIAL CONSERVATIONIST

with BirdLasser and SANParks Honorary Rangers.

During Kruger National Park Birding Weekends, we encourage our guests to record their bird sightings on their smartphones, using the BirdLasser mobile app. BirdLasser enables birders to easily log their sightings and seamlessly share high quality bird data with research and conservation organisations – giving them a better understanding of our birds, their habitat changes and the effect on their wellbeing.

Here are some of the app's features

-  Add details like count, sex, age, activities, habitat, breeding and behaviour. Observations are time-stamped and geo-referenced.
-  Opt to share your confidential sightings data with conservation organisations and causes such as BirdLife South Africa's Threatened Species cause and the Percy FitzPatrick Institute of African Ornithology's Martial Eagles of the Kruger National Park cause.
-  Keep lifelists for all time, the whole world, or calendar years for specific countries or places of interest.
-  Seamlessly share sightings, trip lists or lifelists with communities on social media platforms or share via email, SMS or WhatsApp.
-  Participate in friendly competitions, where contestants' bird observations can be tracked in near real-time and compared with other birders' sightings.

The app is fun, easy to use and freely available to anyone with an Android or iPhone smartphone or tablet. It can be downloaded from the respective online stores.
